ABOUT ME

I have been working in the fields of game development and 3D designer for about 3 years. Then, around May 2022, I started to develop myself in the field of Cyber Security, which is more suitable for my department and to show my skills, and where I am more interested. Regarding this, I took 4 cyber security courses of nearly 200 hours on udemy. I consolidate what I learned on sites such as hackthebox and tryhackme and solve CTFs, completed more than 100 room and I am ranked in the top 1% out of all countries (<https://tryhackme.com/p/AhmetKara>). I'm learning Linux and networking also, I'm investigating OWASP top 10 vulnerabilities. I learned a lot of pentest tools (msfvenom, nmap, burp suite, dirbuster etc.) on Linux and I continue to learn new tools. I wrote scripts of netscan, network listener etc. with Python. I learned about attacks and vulnerabilities such as man in the middle, arp spoof, dns spoof, SQL injection, LFI, RFI and their logic.

I got a lot of information on web pentest and solved CTFs. Currently, I am working on "Broken Access Control", which is the #1 vulnerability type in the OWASP 10 (2021) list. I'm trying to follow and learn about current vulnerabilities. I attended and successfully completed the 44-hour, 1-month Cyber Security Bootcamp organized by Kariyer.net and techcareer.net and got the certificate (<https://certificates.techcareer.net/tr/verify/19585538932400>). In this process, I reinforced the ethical hacking methodology, took lessons and training on pentest report writing and had the chance to apply it. I am also blogging all these things I learned on github (<https://ahmetqara.github.io/>). With each passing day, I add new skills to myself in cyber security, especially in the field of offensive security, apply them and continue to develop. As a computer engineering graduate, I expect to turn these skills and learnings into work experience. That's why I am looking for exciting job opportunities as a pentester in cyber security to gain work experience.
